

20th Annual Philosophy Born of Struggle Conference

The Purdue University Department of Philosophy welcomes you to the 20th annual Philosophy Born of Struggle Conference (PBOS.COM) in West Lafayette, IN

October 25-26, 2013

Ethics, Aesthetics and the Epistemology of Being

In recent years, globally oriented conferences from around the black world<sup>1</sup> have insisted that the ground of reason is and ought to shift – prompting such questions as: What does this shifting ground look like? What do ‘reason,’ ‘beauty,’ ‘virtue’ look like in their new home? How do we reconcile these concepts with perspectives from ‘the periphery’ – ‘Black philosophies,’ ‘working-class philosophies,’ ‘feminist philosophies,’ ‘insurrectionist philosophies,’ etc?

There is a broad corpus of work by and about authors of African American heritage directed towards debating the answers to these and other questions, with varying answers including discussion of post-soul, Afro-futurism, contract theory, political liberalism, epistemic racism/injustice/ignorance, feminist theory, etc. These debates represent the internal dialogue between different schools of thought all arising out a community concerned with human liberation. Over the last twenty years, Philosophy Born of Struggle has mapped and chronicled these debates from within this heritage and these peripheral perspectives. The PHILOSOPHY BORN OF STRUGGLE: 20TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE will try to enhance internal dialogue by visiting and locating debates within the tradition and drawing connections between thinkers and perspectives from across the diaspora.

The 20th is also a time to remember a scholar who has left a towering legacy and for many years sojourned to PBS: William R. Jones Remembering William R. Jones, Lewis Gordon www.lewisrgordon.com/sketches/remembering-william-r-jones.html
